AZE DESIGN

www.azedesign.pl

AZE design was created by Anna Kotowicz-Puszkarewicz, graduate of the Faculty of Graphic Design at the Academy of Fine Arts in Łódź (2005) and Artur Puszkarewicz, graduate of the Faculty of Architecture at the Technical University in Białystok (2001).

Conscious Design – this is how we define our way of thinking about design. Our inspiration comes from everyday situations.

We use both the old handicraft techniques and the latest technologies, combining them with the simplest solutions and intellectual reflection. We would like our objects to have all features of “designed” works – so that our clients have no doubts they deal with an object which is fruit of a creative process and intellectual effort of the designer.

In 2007 AZE design won the 1st place in PRODECO competition for their design called MAZZY. TENSE clothes hanger and MESSY tablecloth now make part of the collection of modern design at the National Museum in Warsaw, and MESSY tablecloth was also included in the collection of textiles at the German National Museum in Nuremberg. AZE Design presented its works at the design exhibitions in Milan, Brussels and Berlin, Tel Aviv, Prague, Belfast, London and Tokyo.
